Does a Mason-Dixon Line Divide County?

Redwood City Official Says Existence of N. County Council 'Tends to Split' Region

By RON BATES

THE MERITS of a North County Council of Cities was debated again at the regular meeting of the San Mateo County Council of Mayors Friday night at the Villa Chartier.

Several members of the South County, which has no organization, took members of the North County to task for the existence of the North County Council which meets every other month.

Chairman of the Mayors' Council, Redwood City Councilman John Rozzelli said the existence of the North County group tends to split the county "like a Mason-Dixon line."

There are a lot of items of mutual benefit that would be better if we sat together as one group."

He said the result would be more influence when the county wanted something from Sacramento.

AFTER HEARING the viewpoints from the representative of the county's southernmost city the mayor of the county's northernmost city, Daly City's Micheal DeBernardi, disagreed.

DeBernardi said the North County Council of Cities was established years ago because there was not enough representation on the Board of Supervisors for the North County.

He said that when you get 90 people together in one room there is not much accomplished. But with a smaller group you can do something.

He suggested that the South County follow suit in establishing a group similar to the North County and meet every other month. In the odd months the two groups could meet as one and bring matters of county-wide importance to the combined group.

DeBernardi said there are several problems which would have no effect on the south county that are solved by the North County group.

BELMONT COUNCILMAN Wallace Benson said he had talked to the North County Council two months ago to no avail.

Rozelli. nevertheless, appointed a subcommittee of the Mayors' group to meet with the North County Council to come to an understanding on the roles of the two groups.

In other business, the Mayors' Council heard a report on a possible hotel-motel tax for San Mateo County.

Rozzelli said that most motel owners had agreed on a tax provided that it be county-wide.

It was pointed out that both San Francisco and Santa Clara now have a tax in effect.

According to Rozelli, the motel owners in San Mateo County would not object strenuously.

The Mayors' council's concern was that the state would pre-empt the county from imposing a hotel-motel tax.

IN THE FEATURED part of the program, Dr. Robert Spiegleman of the Stanford Research Institute outlined the economic trends of San Mateo County for the next decade.

He said California has about 10 per cent of the defense industry trade in the nation today.

The researcher said that San Mateo County must depend primarily on research and development or sophisticated industry.

"This will be our major asset,' 'he said.

He said the Peninsula attracts high caliber people and they must be put to good use.

Spiegleman said that no major firm can plan a new plant without taking into consideration the market in California.

2400-Volt Shock Kills S.S.F. Man

PG&E Lineman Was Working On New Unit

A South San Francisco lineman was electrocuted Thursday afternoon when he received a 2,400-volt shock while working on a new installation in the Pacific Gas and Electric yard at Eastmoor and Sullivan avenues in Daly City.

The victim, Frank Carroll, 35, of 556 Theresa Drive, was pronounced dead on arrival at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in South San Francisco.

Patrolman Robert Crooker said the lineman was standing on a ladder 20 feet above the ground, testing a fuse block in an outside transformer, when he received the shock at 1:37 p.m.

He descended the ladder, apparently stood on the ground for a moment, and collapsed, Crooker reported.

Carroll's supervisor, Philip H. Sigmund, of San Francisco, and a fellow employe, Paul Kirstensen, of 76 Atlantic Avenue, San Bruno, administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and heart massage.

Company officials, following policy, called Federal Ambulance, a San Francisco firm, although a Daly City firm, Mercy Ambulance, is located only two blocks away.

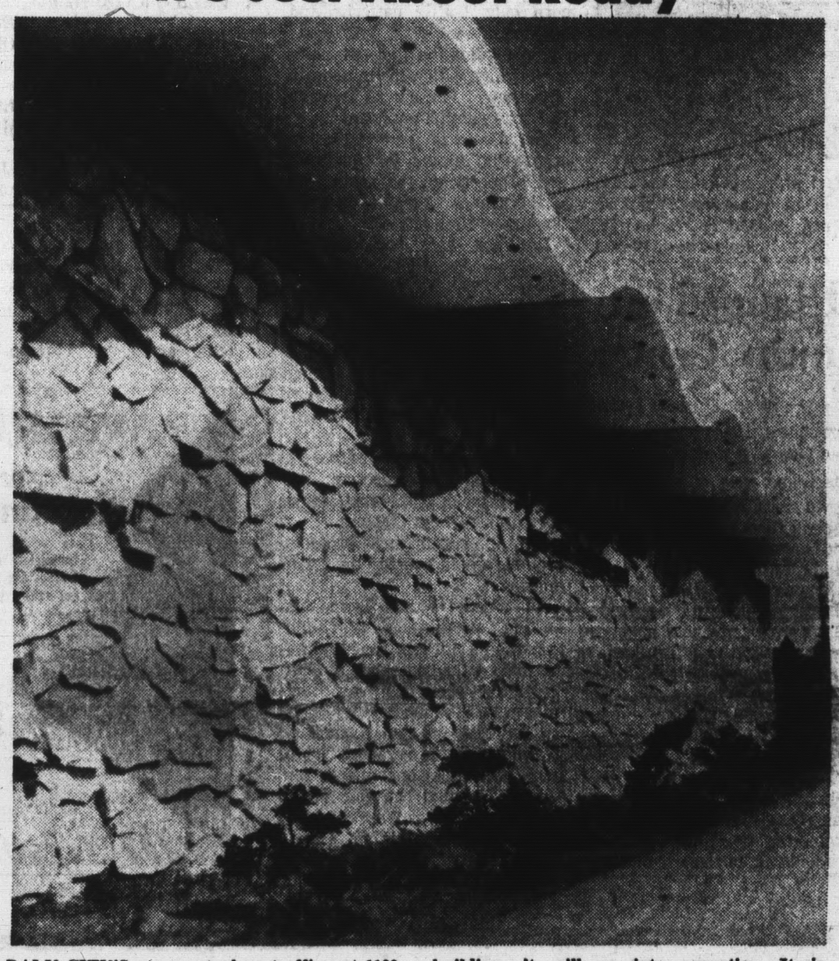

However, a bystander called Mercy about 15 minutes after the accident and the victim was taken by Mercy to Kaiser.

The San Francisco ambulance arrived a few moments later.

A spokesman for PG&E explained that electrocution cases require special equipment and treatment. He said that Federal Ambulance meets these requirements and is called in such cases.

A representative of Mercy Ambulance said his firm carries the necessary equipment, a resuscitator, at all times.

It's Just About Ready

DALY CITY'S new central post office at 1100 Sullivan Avenue, shown here in an angled view, has been virtually completed and is now undergoing an inspection by government engineers. After the engineers give their approval and the Post Office "accepts" the building, it will go into operation. It is owned by Robert and Jane Erving of San Jose, who will lease it to the Post Office. The Virgil Chamberlain Construction Company of Berkeley was the contractor.

Coast Center Study Date To Be Slated

City Is Urged To Construct Facility

By MARILYN BRANNAN

The Pacifica City Council tonight will set a date for a study session on a report about a city community civic center.

The report has been prepared by a committee of citizens at the council's request. The council had asked the group to determine whether a center is needed.

The report is based on questionnaires circulated among Pacifica organizations. It recommends that the city make an effort to provide a center and that the council appoint committees to begin work on details involved.

The committee has suggested the possibility of combining the center with a future governmental civic center.

The council also will hear a letter from D. C. Ryman, assistant district engineer for the California Division of Highways, regarding Pacifica's desire for freeway landscaping.

Ryman re-stated the state's inability to recommend a landscaping project during the 1965-66 fiscal year because funds are not available for non-interstate highways.

He added that funds currently being spent on landscaping maintenance are rapidly approaching the state's statutory limit.

In answer to a question raised by the council about a priority list for landscaping projects, Ryman wrote that such a list is maintained only in a general sense.

"As soon as plans can be completed for those projects that are proposed for the ensuing budget, we can begin plans for future construction," he said.

He assured the council that the division will proceed with studies on the Pacifica project so that plans will be available when funds are allocated by the highway commission.

Ryman also assured the council that present erosion control

Donald J. McMannis, 42, a member of the Pacifica Planning Commission since its inception in 1957 and currently its vice chairman, was appointed to the Pacifica City Council Friday night.

He will fill the unexpired term of councilman and former mayor Harold Feyge who died August 21. Feyge's term would have expired in April of 1966.

The appointment of McMannis by the council was unanimous. He was present when the council announced its choice and will

Apartment Zoning Bid Withdrawn

One application was submitted and one withdrawn for apartment developments near Westmoor High School at a meeting of the Daly City Planning Commission last week.

The withdrawn application had been strongly protested by residents of Zita Manor.

Gus Pedemonte of Argyle Investment Company had proposed apartments for property north of Eastmoor Avenue Avenue and east of Zita Manor. He had asked for a rezoning from commercial to apartments.

Pedemonte wrote the commission, saying an interested buyer may purchase the property for some other use and it was in his "best interests" to withdraw the rezoning application.

The matter had been held over for four meetings after residents had expressed con-

Eight Offer to Donate Kidney

Eight persons have volunteered to donate a kidney to save the life of 28-year-old John Schulte of Daly City as a result of a Post-Times article that appeared last week.

The article told of Schulte's losing fight with a heredity disease, called "polycystic kidney." Doctors say his life can be saved with the transplant of a healthy kidney.

Schulte's wife, Carol, told the Post-Times this week that some of the volunteers are now being tested to determine whether their kidneys can be matched with her husband's.

"The callers were very, very kind," Mrs. Schulte said. "It was heartwarming."

She explained that doctors want to test single persons first. "They prefer not to use the breadwinner of a family if possible." She added:

"I explained this to one gentleman with a family and he said, 'That isn't the point. The point is, I might be able to save your husband's life.' "

Mrs. Schulte said her husband was "elated" by the offers of help. "He didn't know there were so many people who didn't know him who were willing to help."

Possible donors may contact Schulte's doctors, Dr. John Najarian or Dr. James Hopper, at the U.C. Medical Center, MO 4-3600, or call Mrs. Schulte after 6 p.m. at WY 2-4544.

HEAD-ON CRASH

Pacifica Youth Held in Deaths

A 17-year-old Pacifica youth was being held by San Francisco authorities this week on a charge of suspicion of felony drunk driving and manslaughter in connection with the deaths of three members of a San Francisco family in a head-on auto crash.

The youth, Donald Elum Gramlich, 17, 205 Edgewood Avenue, Pacifica, was identified by investigators as the driver of an auto that collided with a Volkswagen bus driven by Matoko Fujimoto, 18, of Morgan Hill, at Great Highway and Sloat Boulevard early Saturday morning.

The impact shattered the bus and killed two of nine passengers—Miss Fujimoto's brother, Paul, 15, and her sister, Shoko, 21, of Berkeley.

A third passenger, Keiko Fujimoto, sister of the other two victims, died Sunday of injuries she had received in the crash.

Five other members of the Fujimoto family, in addition to the driver, all children of Taichi Fujimoto, Morgan Hill vegetable farmer, also were injured in the crash.

San Francisco accident investigator Richard Kazarian said Gramlich was traveling at a speed of 55 miles an hour or more when the crash occurred.

He was treated for minor injuries at Mission Emergency Hospital and then booked and held at the San Francisco Youth Guidance Center.

Business Is Booming

Business is booming in San Mateo County!

Figures released yesterday by the San Mateo County Development Association show that retail sales, income and net buying power and total payrolls are at all-time high in the county.

Population, the number of new plants and expansions and the dollar investment also are taking giant strides forward, the report said.

D.C. Driver Dies After Auto Crash

A Daly City actor was fatally injured late Friday night when his auto and a light truck collided head-on near Los Banos.

The victim was David Wayne Sugars, 38, of 928 Schwerin Street. He died shortly after being admitted to Los Banos City Clinic.

Authorities said Sugars was passing a truck and trailer when the collision occurred.

The light truck, driven by Danny James O'Brien, 43, of Hayward, overturned.

He and a passenger, Geraldine O'Brien, 28, were severely injured and were admitted to City Clinic.

More Lanes On Bayshore Suggested

Construction of additional lanes to make Bayshore Freeway an eight-lane highway throughout San Mateo County has been recommended by a State Chamber of Commerce panel on local highway needs.

The group has recommended the construction of an additional lane in each direction from the north county line to San Bruno and from the south county line to Burlingame. A portion of the freeway from San Bruno to Burlingame is already eight lanes wide.

The panel has also recommended work on El Camino up to six-lane major city street standards.

The state proposals result from recommendations made and announced previously by on the Edgemar Freeway is operating satisfactorily.

City Manager Karl Baldwin will present a revised evaluation of the city's desires concerning freeway design for the south portion of the Cabrillo Freeway.

Pacifica has not reached an agreement with the Division of Highways about the southern portion because both the city and the state had been stalled until the location of Route 229 and its interchange with the coastal freeway were determined.

Baldwin says these facets have now been determined.

The principal points of disagreement before had been the city's request for an off-ramp at Hewitt Avenue and another one in the Linda Mar area.

Baldwin says the revised evaluation contains some new ideas resulting from experience gained during construction of the northern portion of the freeway.

Some points included in the report are an off-ramp south of Hewit, a new esplanade the entire length of Pacifica along the coast and west of route 229 as it turns inland to meet the coastal freeway, frontage roads, and an at-grade, off-ramp onto Linda Mar Boulevard.

Among other action, the Council will consider the renewal of its 1963-64 advertising agreement with the Chamber of Commerce and continue discussion on the rezoning of a portion of the Brighton Canyon area from a single to multiple residential zone.

The rezoning applicants have asked that the matter be continued so that questions from protesting neighbors could be studied and answers found.

be sworn in when the council meets tonight.

McMannis ran unsuccessfully for the council when Pacifica was incorporated in 1957.

During his membership on the Planning Commission, he has served as chairman once and vice chairman several times.

In private life, he is Pacific Gas and Electric Company's district electrical engineer for northern San Mateo County with offices at Eastmoor and Sullivan Avenues in Daly City.

He lives with his wife, Janet, and their children, Kim, 11, and Paul, 13, at 1008 Rosita Road. The children attend Linda Mar School. The family was one of the first to settle in Linda Mar.

A native of Kansas, McMannis attended Kansas State College and later obtained an engineering degree from Heald College in San Francisco.

He served in the Navy during World War II and after this service moved to the Bay Area.

He has been a resident of Pacifica for the past 11 years.

cern over traffic patterns and parking.

The application that was submitted met with wth immediate objections. Henry Doelger Builders was the applicant.

The developer requested apartment zoning for unclassified property on the north side of Eastmoor Avenue opposite Westmoor High School.

Petitions were presented by John Peterson of 8 Ocean Grove Avenue, W. A. Gunn of 27 Ocean Grove and Frank Heiss of 9 Ocean Grove. The petitions had a total of 108 signatures. A letter protesting the re-zoning request also was received from N. E. Wittaker of 702 Beachwood Drive.

Because no representative of the developer was present, the commission held the application over until its next meeting.

Two other apartment projects also were held over by the commission.

Ed Wendt of San Bruno is seeking permission to build apartments in lots zoned commercial on the south side of 88th Street between Sullivan and Edgeworth Avenues.

Stanly Toy of San Francisco is requesting a rezoning from single family to apartments for property located between Acton Street and Alturas Way.

City Engineer William Chapman said that vehicular access is a problem in this area because both Acton and Alturas have 30-foot-right of way widths. He asked that approval be withheld until plans are submitted.

In other action, the commission:

Approved the construction of signs at 2141 Junipero Serra Boulevard, on the southwest corner of Mission and Theta Streets, at 2461 Geneva Avenue, 5975 Mission Street, 7379 Mission Street.

D.C. Summer Play Program Up 31%

By RON BATES

DALY CITY'S ten-week summer program experienced a 31 per cent increase in attendance this year, recreation Director Charles Vincent told the Recreation Commission last week.

A total of 171,194 children took advantage of the program, Vincent said, compared with last year's attendance of 129,877.

A child is counted in the attendance totals each time he visits a recreation facility.

Vincent credited much of the increase to the mailing of an attractive 12-page brochure to every home in Daly City before the summer program began.

The fact that the department had the same supervisoral staff and scheduled some new special events may also have contributed to the jump, Vincent said.

The new special events included trips to Samuel Taylor State Park in Marin County, the Marin Town and Country Club, Fairyland in Oakland and the San Mateo County Fair.

SIX ADDITIONAL recreational facilities were operated this year and attendance at them accounted for 25,998 of the 130,674 children who were counted at playgrounds this summer.

The new facilities are Westmoor Park, Bayshore School, Franklin D. Roosevelt School, Panorama School, Northridge Park and Palisades Park.

Westmoor Park, completed in October of last year, was the most popular of all summer recreational areas operated by the city. Attendance at Westmoor totaled 11,656.

Other popular parks and their attendance figures were Westlake Park, 11,260; Marchbanks 9,724; the War Memorial Community Center, 9,551, and Abraham Lincoln, 9,191.

Last year's playground attendance was 98,709.

Vincent said that despite the fact that four specialist classes were dropped from the program this year, the attendance in this catagory still jumped 29 per cent from 31,168 to 40,520.

THE BIGGEST increase was in attendance at showings of cartoons and feature length movies. The cartoons attracted 15,649 youngsters this summer compared to 10,501 last year and the movies experienced a jump from 7,930 to 11,507.

Recording the biggest jump in percentage was the Teen Drama Class, which went from 176 to 712. The class was under the direction of Nedra Merrick.

In other action the commission:

Heared a talk by Al Rooney of the George Washington P-TA and saw a Walt Disney movie urging the passage of Proposition One on the state ballot in November.

Acknowledged receipt of a joint use agreement with the Bayshore School District. A similar agreement to operate Panorama School in Southern Hills has not been signed with the Brisbane School District.

Received notification from Louis Martin, principal of the adult school, that the gymnasiums at Jefferson and Westmoor High Schools would be available for city recreation leagues on certain nights during school for practice. Use of the gymnasiums had been requested by Vincent.

Collection Box Pilfered

Thieves stole an undetermined amount of cash and checks from a collection box at Hope Lutheran Church at 55 San Fernando Way in Daly City sometime between 11 a.m. and noon Sunday.

The Rev. A. H. Polster, pastor, told police the box contained the entire collection from the 8:30 a.m. service. The box had been placed in the church kitchen after the service.

New Formula Proposed for Gas Tax Fund

A proposed formula for the allocation to cities of the county's share of road construction funds coming from the new one-cent tax on gasoline was submitted Friday to the Greater Highways Committee by a subcommittee of four city managers.

The formula for allocation of the $300,000 annually to match the $1.5 million going each year to the cities from the tax would establish priorities on the basis of one-third population, one-third assessed valuation and one-third the number of miles of streets.

This, explained San Mateo City Manager Arthur B. Sullivan, would be more fair than a population basis alone to such communities as Hillsborough and Atherton which have comparatively few residents but a large number of miles of streets, as compared to Daly City with a large number of residents but a comparatively low street mileage.

It also was proposed by the the county engineer in order that it can be allocated in any one year to another city which then would be required to repay subcommittee that the cities "bank" their street money with the "bank."

Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald, chairman of the Greater Highways Committee, appointed five additional members to the subcommittee to go into more detailed studies of the recommended formula, with the group to report back at the next meeting of the committee.

Original subcommitee members are Sullivan, Redwood City City Manager James Neal, Belmont City Administrator John Watts and Hillsborough City Manager Norman Steine. New members are Glen Ireland, Governmental Research Council; U. S. Simonds, labor leader; Phil Eldridge, Associated General Contractors; Don Wilson, county engineer, and Glenn Jain, Redwood City city engineer.

At present, only 10 of the county's 18 incorporated cities have agreed to join in the allocation program with the county.

Daly City, Pacifica and South San Francisco are among the ten. County officials are hopeful the other communities will join in order to eventually complete the county-wide street and highway system proposed in the $35-million road bond issue defeated by voters in a special election last year.

500 AT RITES

Leaders Attend Feyge Funeral

More than 500 persons—from all walks of life from the highest city and county political leaders to "the man in the street"—turned out at the Chapel of the Sea in Pacifica last Wednesday morning to pay a final tribute to "Mr. Pacifica," former Mayor Harold Feyge.

Feyge was pronounced dead on arrival August 22 at Peninsula Hospital after choking on a steak at a Rockaway Beach restaurant.

The chapel was too small to contain the crowd that came to pay its respects to the longtime civic leader. After a brief tribute by a local minister, Rev. H. D. Harkens of the Little Brown Church of Pacifica, Feyge's body was taken to Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno for interment.

In addition to his wife, the late city official is survived by two daughters, Margaret, 13, and Patricia, 12, and a sister, Mrs. Harry Moore of Los Altos.

Virtually all of the city councils from Burlingame north appeared in full force at the funeral service. Other councils in the county had two or three representatives.

Board of Supervisors Chairman James Fitzgerald, several state highway officials and North County civic leaders also were present. A detachment of soldiers from the Pacifica Nike Station escorted Feyge's coffin to the hearse.

Feyge had distinguished himself as a lieutenant-commander in the Navy during World War II. Seven soldiers fired there volleys over the casket and bugler played Taps.

D.C. Teens to See State Fair

Members of the eight junior and senior teen clubs sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department will take an all-day trip to the State Fair in Sacramento tomorrow.

Buses will leave various sites in Daly City at 8:30 a.m. and return at approximately 7 p.m. The deadline for signing up for the trip is today. More information may be obtained by calling the Recreation Department at PL 5-0850.

SWEATERS DAMAGED

3 Rescued In Pacifica

The Pacifica fire department Friday night rescued three persons from a cliff at Mori's Point.

One of the trio, Raymond Hawkins, 16, San Francisco, was lying on rocks at the bottom of the cliff after falling about 100 feet into the water.

The other two persons were stranded on the cliff when they attempted to reach Hawkins to bring him to safety. They are Dee Mehan, 21, 316 Alida Street, South San Francisco, and Richard Rodriquez, 31, 2531 Catalpa Way, San Bruno.

WE READ where former Argentine dictator Juan Peron is making a comeback.

In exile since 1955, Peron is determined to return to Argentina with his $700 million and head a resurgence of the Peronist movement there which has, in the past, been halted only by military action.

Politics aside, we do know that should Peron's return to "office" be successful, it will probably mean a boom in sports for Argentina since Juan is a sportsman of the first water.

Our source for this information is Frank "Bow Tie" Walsh, San Francisco promoter who shepherded all-star basketball teams to Peron's Argentina in 1950 and 1953. Among members of the clubs were George Yardley, Rene Herrerias, George Walker and Augie Bulwinkle.

"There was never a sporting event in the country that Peron didn't make, if it was physically possible," says Walsh.

And he was quite a showman, too.

"He arrived at every sporting event in a limousine with a siren escort and always came and went accompanied with sincere standing ovations. It seemed he had a parade to honor something or other every week. And he was usually in the parade, either in his limousine or riding a spirited white horse, and almost always in his white- medal-bedecked general's uniform.

"He loved Archie Moore, the fighter, and always encouraged promoters to bring Archie to Argentina.

"He was a great lover of and believer in sports, never spared a dime to set up good sports programs. I never knew or heard of a head of state so interested in sports."

AS EVERYONE knows, Peron was not only a sportsman, but a sport, as well.

When Walsh, the man of a thousand bow ties, once presented Peron with a "star and stripes" bow tie from the United States, Peron reciprocated with a bow tie made from the hide of a wild pampas steer which, he coyly hinted, he had had slain especially for Walsh's tie.

Another time, Walsh's basketball players happened to mention, in casual conversation with Peron, that they hadn't been able to get balcony tickets to see Italy's famed La Scala opera group, which was on Argentina tour at that time.

Peron turned over his entire box to the team.

Peron wasn't a sucker, however. One time, Irish Consul Matt Murphy (a San Francisco consul at one time) offered to trade Irish whisky for Argentine horses, a bottle a horse, straight up, Peron laughed, slapped Murphy on the back, and firmly told him "no."

Obviously, though, it wasn't all fun and games with Peron. Walsh tells a story that best illustrates the former dictator's lethal power.

"During the time I was in Argentina, the Communists, uncharacteristically, had infiltrated the wealthy set because they knew that the wealthy were against Peron and that they were the best way to get rid of him.

"When you come to think of it, it was kind of funny seeing these hard-line Commies wearing white tie and tails, playing polo, sipping martinis and going through all the activities of the aristocracy, which was a beautiful advertisement for their total hypocrisy.

"Anyway, to show you the power of Peron's word, one time in a speech he casually criticized the aristocracy on some small point and the first thing you know, everybody rushed to the Jockey Club—a very posh place frequented by the 'best people' and loaded with antiques—and burned it to the ground."

WALSH, INCIDENTALLY, is now chairman of the People to People sports basketball committee and has a fine exchange program going.

For instance, next summer Brigham Young University will be playing in South America and from December 28 to January 16, two Mexico City teams, Telepar Selections and Club De Portiva Israelita (a Maccabian Game selection), will be touring the East Coast.

"It's a fine program," says Walsh. "The kids live right on a college campus with Americans and vice-versa. A wonderful rapport is established. They really get to know each other.

"For instance, the Icelandic National Basketball team will be in the East at the same time as the Mexican clubs and the Iceland kids have a singing quartet that will tour as many campuses as is feasible, singing Icelandic folksongs."

"Like what?" we asked Walsh, who obviously does not know any Icelandic folksong from a string tie but who is also never stuck for an answer.

"Oh, like 'Ma, He's Making Ice at Me,'" replied Walsh, who then excused himself because of preparations to fly to Iceland.

Maybe Walsh is the real reason for Peron's leaving Argentina. Who, after all, could trust a man who doesn't go near Florida in the winter, but who spends his summers in Iceland?

TAG-END STATISTICS TALK: Another maxim shattered, this one being that pitching can't succeed with the walk.

The Giants lead the National League in team earned run average, AND in total walks allowed by pitchers.

At this writing, the Giants lead the Dodgers, 650-606, since the two started playing each other; 68-59 since their move to the coast.

Dodgers Win Title; Greys Defeat Cats

Hunt's Donuts Greys last week turned back one of the top teams in the Intermediate Baseball League, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, when they downed the BYA Bender Roofing Cats, 8-3.

The victory gave the Greys an 8-2 record for the season and enhanced their chances of taking the league championship in their first year in the league.

Dave Washington hurled for Hunt's, giving up six hits. He also aided his own cause at the plate by banging out three hits in four trips.

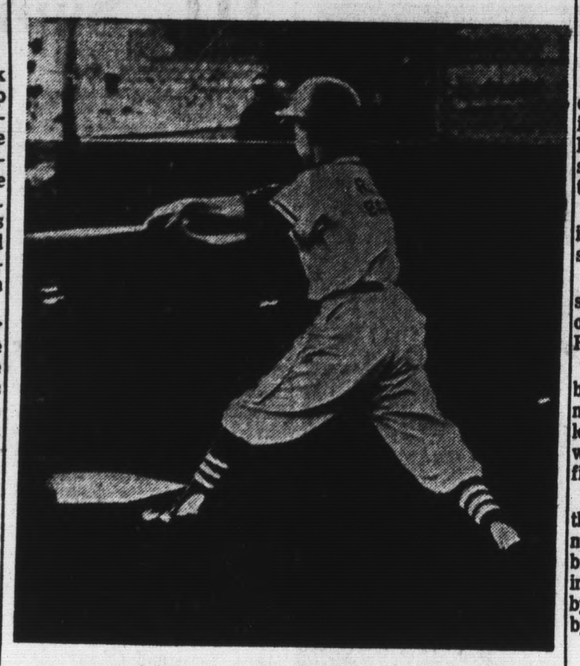

In the Midget Far West League, the P-TA Dodgers were upended by the PAL Giants, 10-4, but nonetheless wound up with a 7-1 record and the league title.

Brad Lindsay pitched three-hit ball for the Giants.

Earlier in the week, the Dodgers whomped the PAL Wildcats, 20-5, and defeated the PAL Mustangs, 5-1.

Coach Gene Woodling of the Baltimore Orioles broke in with Mansfield in the Ohio State League at age 17 in 1940.

A Healthy Cut

Indians Win Again: Hunt's Thwart Lions

The PAL Indians last week continued their all-winning ways in the National Division of Midget League baseball, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department.

Paced by the airtight pitching of Dede Pinelli, the Indians skinned the PAL Tigers, 9-0.

In other action, the PAL Redsox came out on the long end of a 5-4 count with the BYA Rams.

The Rams hold second place but should the Redsox win their next ball games and the Rams lose to the Indians, the race would end in a deadlock for first place.

In the American Division of the Midget League, Hunt's Donuts turned back a determined bid by the OLM Lions, winning in the final inning on a single by Mike Mulaney and a triple by Joe Randolph.

IS A HOUSE REALLY A "MACHINE FOR LIVING IN"?

That's how a famous contemporary architect, Le Corbusier, defined the home. "A machine for living in." Well, it's time we think someone took issue with that idea.

Houses weren't meant to be machines. They were meant to protect families, to be places to live and laugh and love. Not cold glass auditoriums with half walls where noise and kitchen odors pass from room to room. Rather a house was meant to be warm and comfortable where rooms are rooms that can be closed off for privacy and quiet. Where from the outside you can tell it's a house, not an office building.

Traditional Homes in Burlingame took a stand for the classic house. Traditional Homes said that the good old days had something substantial to offer today's home. Important things like a full attic, a formal, separate dining room, a kitchen with doors to close off frying odors and dirty dishes.

You see it's simple enough. We think Tradition has something to teach the modern world. Maybe not about a machine. But certainly about a place called home.

S.S.F. Brush Fire Quelled

A brush fire in the Westborough section of South San Francisco was controlled quickly Friday. But firemen had to spend four hours at the location to extinguish the blaze completely.

Students Are Slow to Sign For Bus Plan

Charter bus service direct to College Heights campus along two routes spanning the length of the county will be available to College of San Mateo students this fall — if enough of them take advantage of it.

"So far, the response has been virtually nil," said William J. Wash, the college's co-ordinator of student activities, "and we can't understand why. We thought, and so did the bus company, that three would be a big demand for this service."

The schedules were planned by Star Charter Line to offer two single runs in the morning originating at Daly City and East Palo Alto, and single runs in the afteroon from the campus to those communities.

For students living in the Jefferson Union High School District or south of Woodside Road and its extension, La Honda Road, the college district contributes to the fare.

Monthly round trip fares to those areas will be $7.

Monthly passes may be purchased in Walsh's office in the student center on the campus.

COMMENT

Transit Can't Be Swept Away

SAN MATEO County's Rapid Transit Committee, after holding three hearings at which different opinions on the subject of rapid transit were fully heard, has now recommended to the county supervisors that they activate a Transit Authority in accordance with the terms set forth in the West Bay Transit Bill.

The purpose of such an authority, it must be clearly understood, is to determine by study and survey the best and most practicable program of providing mass transit facilities, including interconnections with the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, for the county. For this purpose it has very limited use of small tax levies in order to defray the costs of studies, surveys, and the formulation of a program.

It cannot, nor can the county, proceed with such a program or encumber the public funds, by bonding or any other means, until the taxpayers themselves decide by a two-thirds majority at a public election.

Under these circumstances it would appear that the wise course for the supervisors is to accept the recommendation and activate the authority.

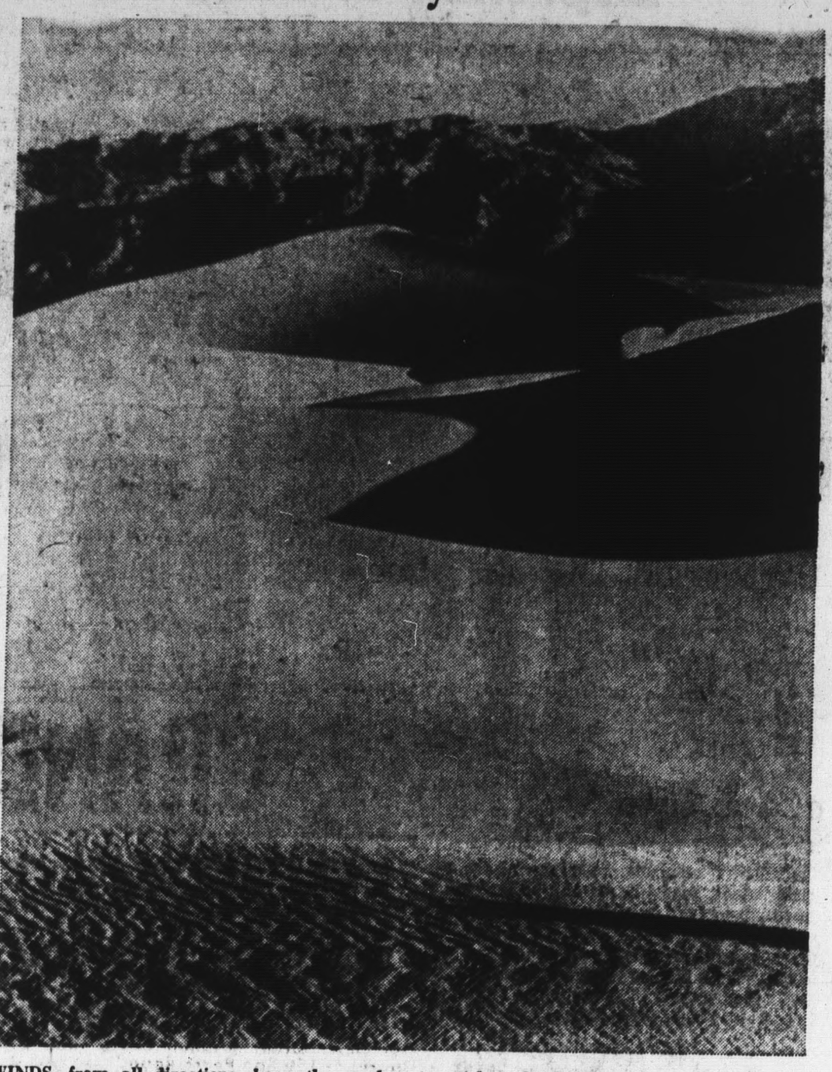

THE ISSUE of public transit, both within this county and as the county relates to the rest of the Bay Area, cannot be swept under the rug or ignored. We must have a definite decision and formulate a program, based on accurate data and findings, even if such a decision ultimately rejects publicly operated mass transit for the county. Indeed, the prospects for privately operated transit facilities should be a first order of investigation in the studies to be made.

There are widely varying opinions as to the mode forms and scope of any mass transit system to be instituted, if one is instituted, for the county. All of these must be taken into consideration and their possibilities explored. Surveys and studies of this magnitude can only be undertaken by a competent authority with sufficient funds.

If a program is determined upon this, too, can only be done by a competent authority with sufficient funds.

Since the transit issue is vitally involved with the future of San Mateo County and its property values there is urgent necessity that the county must come to a resolution of the issue. With this condition existent it is right and proper that the Board of Supervisors should activate a Transit Authority forthwith.

Death Valley Stillness

WINDS—from all directions—keep the sand dunes of Death Valley confined to only a small part of Death Valley National Park. The early morning and late afternoon light cast interesting shadows over the wind-rippled surfaces of the dunes. Visitors can participate in guided walks, self-guiding auto tours, horseback trips, play golf and swim. Death Valley can be reached by State Highway 190, running east from U.S. 6 northeast of Bakersfiled. Experience IS Best Teacher

Don Miller

'TIS SAID, and wisely so, that experience is the best teacher. Those mistakes you made last time you're not so supposed to repeat the next time. That is, if you're on the beam.

Well, we're somewhat proud to report this morning, we must have been right on the old timber a weekend ago when we embarked on our second annual Delta trip—a watery voyage into that magic land of sloughs, marshes, canals, abandoned piers and man-made levees that embrace the countryside around the San Joaquin and Sacramento Rivers.

This is an area that proved to be so fascinating we decided to stage a reprise this season.

Since last year's voyage was fraught with mistakes, omissions and a generous amount of unfounded optimism, we vowed this time to lean heavily on Dame Experience and pull off a well-organized and thought out Delta invasion.

Like last year, the mode of conveyance was our sturdy 25-foot sloop, which sleeps four below and two brave souls on deck if the weather is right. If it isn't, then the ship's company has two bleary-eyed crew members in the a.m.

Among our stalwart crew this year was a landlubber type who had never sailed before, who silently vowed at one rather windy point in the voyage never to sail again, but who at the trip's end, admitted he had been conquered by the romance of sail and was ready to depart again at any time.

IN 1963, we confidentally planned to arrive in Antioch, some 40 miles from our departure point, on the first afternoon and evening of sailing. We got as far as Crockett—a mere 20 miles or only halfway.

This was the result, we agreed later, of some junior-league naivety about just how far a sailboat can travel in a given amount of time. It's not like piloting the family flivver down to the corner market. There's no gas pedal for more speed. There's only a silent — and — oft-repeated prayer—for more wind.

So this year, Crockett was chosen as the target for the first leg of the journey and after five and a half hours of what can only be termed superb saling, Crockett it was.

However, we would be remiss in not reporting that the target was arrived at in a slightly different manner on this second annual than on the inaugural. In fact, if it had not been for the astute observations of the crew last year, the good ship never would have reached the Delta but would still be decorating shoal water in upper San Pablo Bay.

That's because the captain mistook a couple of lights on land for navigation aids and was heading ship et al straight toward a part of the bay in which water was conspious by its absence when soneone noticed the lights of the Carquinez Straits bridge off the starboard side.

Since the bridge lights were not, in the captain's opinion, supposed to be off that side, the observation caused a bit of consternation among the crew because the bridge we were supposed to pass under.

After mumbled threats of mutiny if course were not altered, the captain finally did agree that those WERE the lights of Carquinez and that we would, indeed, find ourselves rather high and dry if the tiller weren't brought over—and promptly. Which it was.

EXPERIENCE ran up considerably more points later in the voyage when we left Pittsburg, our ultimate destination for the weekend, for the trip back.

Last year when we set out for home port, one of the crew assigned to galley chores decided to boil some eggs on the alcohol stove for breakfast—despite the fact that the motion of the boat in rough water at the time wouldn't exactly enhance the success of a meal.

Nonetheless, our cook was determined and on went the eggs. At this point, the engine decided it was tired and quit with a few sickening coughs and sputs. We had been motoring instead of sailing because the wind was far too rambunctious for sailing in what was, at the time, a fairly narrow channel.

However, with the engine playing stubborn and with an exceedingly large freighter looming in the distance up the channel, we had no choice but to hoist sail and regain steerageway.

For this task, all hands were summoned — including the cook. At a signal up went the mainsail, over went the boat at about a 50-degree angle and off the stove went one pot and a half dozen eggs.

They cascaded onto the floor and if the cabin deck had been an overly large grill, scrambled eggs would have been served shortly thereafter. But, of course, it wasn't and while we were about the understandably vital task of maneuvering out of the way of the freighter, the cook disappeared into the cabin.

He would periodically appear at the top of the gangway with a pained expression, wring out an unusually yellow sponge over the side and disappear again below. That was the end of breakfast preparations and very nearly the end of our cook.

THIS YEAR, we also started out for home in rough weather and high winds but all hands sagely agreed that it would be folly to fiddle with vittles until the angle of the ship was such that a cabin wall was no longer the deck and the cabin roof was no longer a wall.

As a result, because the wind was feeling in high spirits that Sunday morning, breakfast was deferred for six hours after we got underway—and when it finally was served, it was on a table in a Crockett waterfront restaurant.

Now you outdoor purists may say that's taking the easy way out but somehow, the idea of the cabin deck awash with egg yolk again wasn't exactly appetizing.

After all, we think you'll agree, Sunday morning breakfast is ONE breakfast in the week that should be enjoyed with at least a modicum of peace and quiet and not with the lee edge of the kitchen table submerged in salt water.

North County Notebook

That Cauldron Will Boil Now

Ron Bates

NOW THAT the Democrats and the Republicans have met and applied their rubber stamps to the nominations of Barry and Lyndon for president, watch the political cauldron start to boil in the North County.

Whenever there is a presidential election, people get all enthused and there are volunteers galore to ring doorbells, make telephone calls, man registration booths and pass out brochures.

Emotions run high and friends become antagonists as they argue the merits or demerits of their candidates.

In some ways, it's a shame. It's a shame, I say, because all that enthusiasm is directed to a level of government the actions of which do not have anywhere near the direct effect on the resident as does local government.

Certainly, the election of a president should be one of the paramount concerns of a voter but it seems to me that some of that enthusiasm should be directed toward local elections.

IT SEEMS that all a guy has to do in Daly City to get elected is to poll about 4,000 votes. That's really not that much when you consider that the population of Daly City is almost 60,000.

And in a school election, all you need is about 2,000—more often less than that.

Yet, here at the local level, a resident can actually see more clearly what his tax dollar does. If he doesn't like what he sees, he can speak out and more often than not he is listened to.

You may say that it doesn't matter—that these things are settled anyway before they come to the public vote.

Maybe so, but if that's the case then I think that it is the fault of you and I if we let this situation exist.

I WAS PRIVILEGED to be covering a city council meeting a couple of weeks ago when a resident stood up and protested a proposed apartment rezoning near his home.

He was affected by the rezoning but he said he wished he wasn't because he felt he was witnessing a trend in the city that was detrimental — that of permitting the construction of "box houses."

He talked and probably echoed the thoughts of many people in Daly City as they drive by some of the new apartment buildings going up.

But he was only one person and he was directly affected. Therefore, the influence of his words, although they made sense, was not enough to change the mind of all five councilmen. Only one changed his mind.

HOWEVER, if there had been more people expressing their opinions, I think the outcome may have been different.

In March, for example, there were three controversial rezonings before the council. The council chambers were jammed with protesting residents and the rezonings ultimately were not passed.

Another concrete example of public pressure is the withdrawal earlier this year of a controversial 800-unit apartment development adjacent to Westmoor High School.

Pressure was brought to bear on the developer and he revamped his plans over and over. Finally, they were withdrawn. But if the apartments had been built, they would have been much improved over those indicated in the original plans.

ONE MORE example of public pressure, perhaps too much in this case, is the $7-million Stonegate planned community on Sign Hill in South San Francisco.

Because of the opposition of neighbors, the developers presented study after study and plan after plan to convince the city that the community would be beneficial.

The issue is still up in the air but much more thought has been given to the question than would have been had the public not appeared to speak.

I HEARD a suggestion once that may possibly be a cure to voter apathy. It's probably not feasible but nevertheless I think it's a good idea.

Only half of the taxes should be taken out of the voter's paycheck. He should be made to pay the other half out of his pocket.

I think then that more people would be concerned about who they put on the school board or on the city council to spend that tax money.

The Marquee

The 'Sound' Sounds Fine

Barbara Bladen

ALTHOUGH it's a relative newcomer to the American musical theater's inventory of favorites, "The Sound of Music" has gained a widespread and devoted following since it bowed on Broadway in 1959.

This was never more evident than at the opening night performance last week of the Rodgers and Hammerstein work at Melodyland in Berkeley where a full house greeted the show with what could only be considered rapturous applause.

The show is blessed with one of the most melodic scores Richard Rodgers has produced. Fortunately, the Melodyland cast is, in turn, blessed with a raft of well-directed singers who convey the real life story of the Trapp Family of Singers in moving fashion.

In her portrayal of Maria, the postulant in a convent who is sent off to become a governess to seven motherless children, Dorothy Collins gives such a winning performance that I can only wonder why she wasn't nabbed by live theater sooner instead of becoming the singing star she did on television and radio's "Hit Parade."

Miss Collins is obviously fond of children for the warmth and understanding she conveys to the young thespians who play the Trapp family children comes off as much more than stage-acting—it is a genuine display of affection.

The children, as you might expect, respond to this affection readily and as a result, their performances are uniformly excellent.

Miss Collins receives staunch support from baritone Norwood Smith who portrays the aristocratic Captain von Trapp in such a convincing fashion you would have thought he had written the part himself.

A veteran of such Broadway hits as "Guys and Dolls," "Can-Can," "Kismet" and "Silk Stockings," Smith considers the Trapp role his favorite, which undoubtedly accounts for his enthusiasm at Melodyland.

As the saintly and perceptive Mother Superior, Evelyn Keller brings to her performance a polish of perfection gained while she played the role for two and a half years in the first national company of "Sound of Music."

Miss Keller has had considerable operatic experience and her singing in "Sound of Music" is one of the highpoints of the show.

To the role of Max Detweiler, the Austrian music festival promoter who is torn between joining the Nazis after Anschluss or remaining loyal to the Trapp family, Robert Miller Driscoll has brought just the right combination of wry humor and good-natured buffunery. He also has directed the production and his efforts have produced a well-paced, sensitive "Sound of Music" with which the audience gains an early rapport.

Mary Lou Dowers plays Captain Trapp's prospective second wife with a subtly villainous tinge while Linda Michele disarms the audience with a spirited portrayal of Liesl, the oldest of the Trapp children.

A newcomer to the professional ranks is Bob Logan, who, in making his debut in a featured role as Liesl's admirer, is a bright product of the apprentice program conducted at Melodyland.

This is the sixth and final production of the 1964 season at Melodyland and if the finale can be used as a yardstick, we can look forward to more top flight summer theatre across the bay next year.

Performances will continue through Sunday, September 6.

The Book Shelf

By SAMUEL CHANDLER
Daly City Librarian

THERE'S "The Lyndon Johnson Story," "L. B. J.: The Man From Johnson City," "Lyndon Baines Johnson, Man of Reason" and four other biographies of the present president and one of his wife on the list of widely read new books.

Next to biographies of John F. Kennedy, this Johnson fad is one of the biggest movements in the book business.

The list of publishers who have a Johnson book in publication contains such names as Farrar, Dodd, Denison, Fleet, and Atheneum.

ONE SIGNIFICANT title is Mr. Johnson's own book, "A Time for Action," which is a collection of speeches and writings dating from the period shortly before he became president.

That all the selections are given in full as they were written and delivered is unique for this age of scissors and paste anthologies.

Unfortunately, the selections are too formal to reveal the President's personality and vigor.

They are, however, an index into the thinking of a man who rejects oversimplified labels. The compiler has done a good job in indexing the entire book.

Speaking of the collection, a Library Journal review found Mr. Johnson displaying a facility for forceful and effective speech making.

Peninsula Panorama

Mirror, Mirror On EVERY Wall

George Whitesell

LIFE ON THE PENINSULA is mirrored much more closely than it used to be.

At home and abroad, the reflections of ourselves are to be found in numerous and generous mirrors, both to satisfy our own vanity and to check up on us.

If you fear there is a smudge on your nose you won't have to go far to find out.

And if you are just vain you will be able to indulge yourself in almost unlimited self-adoration — often without anyone getting wise.

What is more practical, with the presence of mirrors almost anywhere you go, you can keep an eye on others without the necessity for looking directly at them or seeming nosy.

In case you hadn't noticed, many Peninsula stores and markets that do not sell items like clothing and millinery, in which the buyer wants to see his appearance, have even more mirrors than clothing stores and hat shops.

They are, sad to relate, mirrors installed by the management so that the clerks can keep a wary eye on the customers, and the boss can keep a wary eye on the clerks.

Such mirrors are set well above eye-level in various positions intended to reflect every corner of the store and are intended to halt the practice of removing merchandise from the store without the trifling formality of paying for it.

MANY OF THESE tell-tale mirrors are of convex shape in order to reflect a greater area and the management doesn't give a hoot if they do give back a warped image of the customer.

Some unseen watcher is more interested in what you are doing than in what you look like.

Most people rarely look above the level of the shelves and the counters in markets and stores, but the next time you are shopping take a look upward and you may be in for a surprise. You will find the mirrors in many unexpected places.

And you might have some fun out of it because an honest mirror doesn't cheat and it works both ways. You may see the store manager sneaking a smoke or a beer in some corner not ordinarily visible to the customers.

OF COURSE, it is a bit disconcerting to be watching someone else in one of these mirrors and suddenly realize the other party is watching you.

This reminds us of a long-forgotten story from World War I during which the resourceful British invented a gadget called a trench periscope. This was a mirrored and lensed tube that you could poke above the top of a trench and use to survey "No Man's Land" in comparative safety.

A Sergeant-Major was thus pleasantly engaged one day when he became aware that someone in the enemy trenches was doing the same thing. He focussed his periscope and zeroed in just as the Boche on the other side took exactly similar steps. Their eyes met and the brave Briton sat down completely shaken.

"Ow," he commented, "it was 'orrible, just like a poached egg on a stick!"

Back in by-gone days neither stores nor homes were generous with mirrors. At one time homebuilders provided no nonsense like mirrors at all. After the beginning of the bathroom era they would grudgingly provide a small mirror on a medicine cabinet. Any other mirrors in the house you provided yourself.

Outside clothing and millinery stores mirrors were a rarity.

Women carried purse mirrors and mirrored compacts if they used makeup, out they did not use them openly, for powder and rouge were considered "fast." Oddly enough, most men carried small, metal-backed pocket mirrors, which were a favorite advertising gimmick.

But then, as now, you could always have a pleasant flirtation with yourself in the back-bar mirror of a saloon or a confectionery. If you get around much you will find that this still maintains is magic appeal.

MODERN HOMES, apartments and hotels are lavish in their use of mirrors. Stores use them to double and triple their displays of merchandise.

Decorators use them to make spaces appear larger.

And occasionally we find a room completely walled in with mirrors so that you can be a one-person crowd.

But beware the mirror that has no reason at all. It may be one of those spy jobs with a policeman on the other side.

Groundbreaking With Class

IT WAS strictly white tablecloth and silver service when this group gathered for an out-of-doors snack on the site where a new Lyons Coffee Shop-Restaurant and Lounge will open in January. The group also participated in formal groundbreaking ceremonies. From left are J. H. Voorsanger, president of the restaurant firm; Gary S. Nachmann, vice president; Henry Doelger, president of the construction firm in his name that will build the restaurant; Karen Soltau, Miss Daly City and U. R. (Jack) Kendree, managing director of shopping centers for Henry Doelger Enterprises.

A New Place to Eat

Ground Broken for Restaurant

Ground was broken last week for a new Lyons Coffee-Shop Restaurant north of the Westlake Shopping Center at Alemany Boulevard and Poncetta Drive.

The site formerly was occupied by Temple Judea, which has moved to a new synagogue on Brotherhood Way.

The restaurant is being designed by Architect Edward Wong of San Francisco and will be constructed by Henry Doelger Builder. Total cost is estimated at close to $1.5-million. The restaurant is expected to open in January.

The building will feature a distinctive geometric-patterned roof. Native stone and glass will be used extensively.

The coffee-shop restaurant will accommodate 135 patrons and the cocktail lounge will seat 50.

Red, orange and brown colors will dominate the color scheme. Terrazzo floors and walnut paneling will be used.

The restaurant will be open 24 hours a day and a perpetual flame will burn at the main entrance to signify this. Lyons officials say a breakfast, lunch and dinner menu will be moderately priced.

Adjacent to the restaurant will be a new 800-unit apartment complex, now under construction by Doelger.

Stock Plans Are Revised

At a special meeting of the board of directors, revisions in proposed plans for additional capital for Wells Fargo Bank were adopted.

Ransom M. Cook, president, announced that a combination of convertible and non-convertible capital notes is to be recommended to the stockholders, but the board of directors does not now plan to authorize the offering of rights for additional common stock.

At a special stockholders' meeting called for today, stockholders will be asked to authorize issuing and sale of approximately $25-million of convertible capital notes and of capital notes.

"It is the opinion of the bank's directors that the $75 million thus added to the bank's capital is adequate for presently indicated needs in support of the bank's expanding activities." Cook stated.

Post-Times Wins Another Award for Classified Ads

A second major award for pre-eminence in classified advertising has been awarded to The Post-Times, it was announced last week. Classified Advertising Mrs. Margaret Buschini was presented with the "Award of Excellence" of the Western States Classified Advertising Associations at the annual convention of the organization in Las Vegas.

The award was based upon displays of the newspaper's classified promotional advertising during "Want Ad Week" with the slogan "Everyone Reads the Want Ads" and candid camera photos of Post-Times readers showing their preferences in reading the various classifications of ads.

Earlier this year The Post-Times won the International Award of Editor and Publisher Magazine for the best classified advertising promotion presented to the Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Convention held in New York City. This was a 12-month promotion stressing the value of classified advertising.

Both entries were originated and directed by Mrs. Buschini who credited success to co-operation of all departments of The Post-Times and especially to Ray Zirkel, a first-place winner for sport pictures in the annual Associated Press contest.

WINDOW BROKEN

Julian Rifkin of 398 St. Francis Boulevard, Daly City, reported to police over the weekend that someone had fired a BB through the front window of his residence.

Time Limit Set on Jail

The County Board of Supervisors officially has gone on record to assure that the jail barracks scheduled to open this month at Coyote Point in San Mateo will not be in use for more than 18 months.

A resolution to that effect was adopted by the board.

It is planned to house 40 "carefully screened" county jail prisoners there in a fenced-off barracks area while they are working on demolition of old classroom buildings on the site formerly occupied by the College of San Mateo.

County Manager E. R. Stallings said no dangerous prisoners will be kept at the facility. Prisoners will be men serving terms for such crimes as check passing, failure to provide and drunk driving, the manager reported.

This Ship Won't Sail

They'll be yelling "Ahoy, Matey!" and walking the plank at Westmoor Park soon.

A 30-foot make-believe "pirate ship" will be constructed complete with anchor, crow's nest and plank for mutinous crewmen in the city's newest park near Westmoor High School.

The Daly City Recreation Commission accepted plans for the land-locked ship at a meeting last week.

The ship will be built by the city's Public Works Department.

Needed are an anchor and a steering wheel and anything else normally found on pirate ships. "Pirate crews" will be drafted from neighborhood kids

Laguna Is Sued Over Equipment

A food equipment supply firm has filed suit in Superior Court against the Laguna Salada School District charging that the firm hasn't been allowed to install the type of dishwasher it wants to in the Fairmont Elementary School.

Berlin Food Equipment Company says it wants to place a "Stero" dishwasher in the cafeteria of the new school, but that the district's specifications, allegedly in violation of state law, specify a "Hobart" machine.

The Berlin firm charges that a "Stero" machine was rejected by the district and by Gwathemy, Sellier, Crosby, Master and Hurd, architects for the school, and by Pacific Coast Builders, general contractors, who built the facility.

The plaintiff alleges that the Stero machine is equal to the Hobart dishwasher, charging that the plaintiff cannot acquire at competitive prices the Hobart machine because of franchise contracts.

Charging "favoritism," the complaint asks the court to order installation of the Stero machine, plus any damages deemed due.

Terra Nova to End Pool Hours

The Terra Nova High School pool is closed for public swimming for the summer. The pool will reopen in the fall on Sundays, starting September 20. It will be open until the end of October, weather permitting. Bathing caps will not be rented during the fall.

WINDOW SMASHED

Larry R. Tweed of 80 Brooklawn Avenue, Daly City, told police that a window of his car was smashed last week as it was parked in front of his home.

BURGLARY REPORTED

The Vin Mar Motel at 3255 Geneva Avenue, Daly City, reported to police that linens and a portable television set was stolen from one of the motel's units last week.

AUTO DAMAGED

Chester L. Norton of 355 Park Plaza Drive, Daly City, reported to police over the weekend that vandals had damaged the right headlight of his parked car.

BB SHOT REPORTED

Zell Dove of 31 Lakeview Dr., Daly City, reported to police over the weekend that someone had fired a BB through a window in the front of his home.

RECORDINGS STOLEN

Allen Johnah of 85 Orange Street, Daly City, reported to police last week that recordings, valued at $35, had been stolen from his residence.

TIRES PUNCTURED

Charles H. Smith of 17-A Peoria Street, Daly City, reported to police last week that vandals had punctured four tires on his auto, parked in front of his home.

It is now zoned for apartment buildings.

The Karps said their project will be valued at more than $10-million upon completion.

BETTER BUSINESS

Courses at Home Are Widely Used

By LORENE BEASLEY
Editor, Better Business Bureau "Barometer"

IN A SHORT time, millions of students across the United States will be returning to school.

Throughout the year, approximately another 750,000 will enroll in private home study schools.

This figure, which outnumbers the freshmen who enter ALL of our colleges and universities each year, represents people who cannot take advantage of local educational opportunities or have no other schools available to them.

Approximately two million persons all over the world study by various home study methods.

The government - supported University of South Africa offers graduate work by correspondence alone. Practically all vocational education in Sweden is available only through correspondence.

In the United States, more than 150 colleges, universities and state departments of education offer correspondence instruction to over 175,000 persons.

The United States Armed Forces Institute enrolls about 275,000 service personnel annually.

Over 6,000 American firms have agreements with home study schools to train new workers and to upgrade their present employes.

Some companies have a plan whereby they agree to pay part or all of the cost of the courses for qualified employes.

THERE ARE many advantages of home study courses for both the employer and employe. It is relatively less expensive for the firm in terms of time and money and the employe does not have to lose time from his job.

The employe taking a home study course often obtains a certain prestige with his company. A certificate of completion of a home study course often is accepted as an endorsement.

Home study courses are recognized as an effective method of instruction and learning. They can be started at a time convenient to the student and pursued at a pace best suited to the individual.

The student will get out of a correspondence course what he puts into it. He will learn not only the prescribed subject matter but will also gain competence in reading.

By demonstrating persistence and self-discipline in his studies, he will undoubtedly be able to undertake a better position.

THE ADULT who wishes to increase his knowledge and skills has hundreds of courses to choose from. The typical student is about 26-30 years of age, a high school graduate and employed.

Approximately 75 per cent of the students are men with a family, who enroll for a home study course because they want to advance financially or may want to break into a new field of work.

Home study courses are especially valuable to the shut-in and the handicapped. Retired people who need a second career to supplement their retirement incomes enroll for home study courses.

Home study courses give the millions who never went beyond the eighth grade a second chance to finish required work for a high school equivalency certificate.

The majority of home study schools provide good home study courses of instruction but there is a minority group which, because of inadequate facilities and courses and failure to control unethical salesmen undermine the confidence of the public in such schools.

IF YOU ARE an interested student, you should thoroughly investigate the merits of any school and course you are considering. Obtain official catalogs or brochures.

If it is convenient, make a personal visit to the school and check the school's instructional facilities and equipment.

Investigate the school's reputation. Check with your Better Business Bureau.

Do not sign a contract unless you intend to keep it. The contract is for your protection as well as the school's.

Clearly understand all terms of the contract, particularly if there is a cancellation clause. Some schools either do not permit cancellation or permit it only after a cancellation fee is paid.

Do not believe any verbal promise that you can break the contract any time you might wish to.

Do not expect to be released from a contract because you have found the work too difficult or you just want to discontinue the home study course.

Pauson's Appoints Executive

John De Angeles, former executive vice president of Roos Atkins, has been appointed executive vice president of Pauson's, San Francisco retail firm operating six stores in the Bay Area, including an outlet in the Westlake Shopping Center.

Announcement of the appointment was made by Michael Daroff, president of Botany Industries who own and operate Pauson's as part of a 74-store retail division.

According to Ralph Schneider, vice president in charge of the Botany retail division, the appointment of De Angeles is a major move in an extensive expansion program now under way in the Pauson's organization.

Though Schneider stated he was not at liberty at this time to discuss the program or its extent, he indicated it included adding to the Pauson's chain within the immediate future.

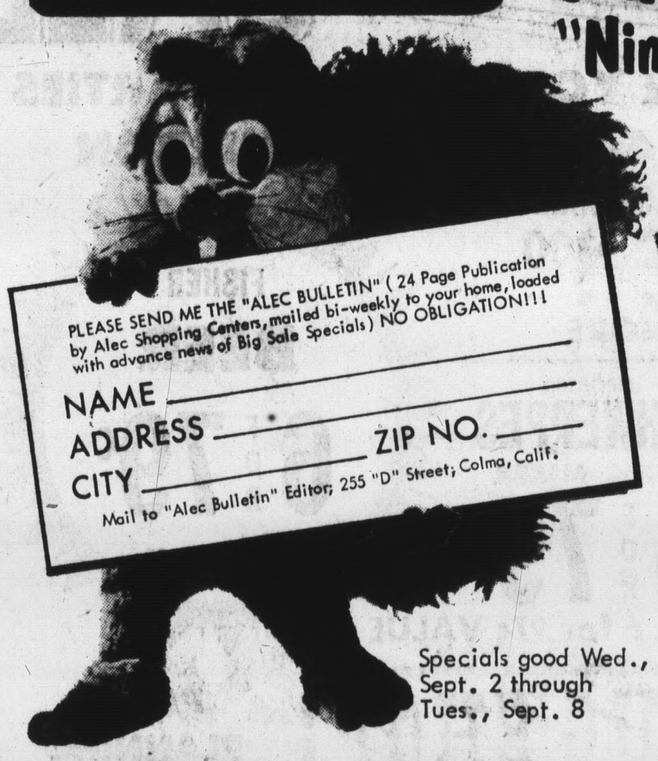

Walter O. Dessauer will continue as president of Pauson's with Jack K. Durnford as vice president and general manager in charge of merchandising. No other personnel changes are contemplated, Schneider said.

Dairy Firm Faces Charge

Christopher Dairy Farms, Inc., owned by former San Francisco mayor George Christopher, has been charged in San Mateo County Superior Court with granting unearned discounts to customers.

A complaint on behalf of Charles Paul, director of agriculture for the state of California, was filed by Donald H. Maffly, a deputy attorney general.

It is charged that the dairy granted unearned discounts ranging from $15 to $82.50 to stores and restaurants in San Francisco served by the firm.

Also alleged in the complaint is that the dairy installed a $419 milk dispenser free of charge in the Char Burger Coffee Shop, South San Francisco, and that the dairy hired a painter to paint a sign for a San Francisco restaurant without the resurant being charged.

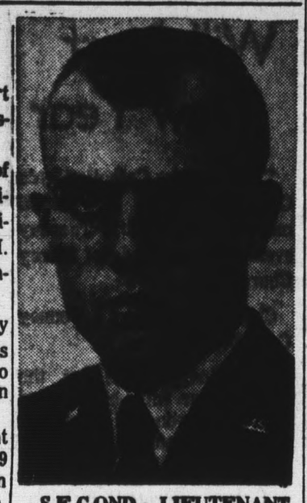

A total of $8,000 damages is sought by the state.

DRAFT VERSION

CSM Airs Plans For North Campus

College of San Mateo has unveiled the tentative educational specifications for its new north and south campuses.

The specifications were presented to the Board of Trustees in draft form, and a final version is hoped for by November 1.

Highlights of the study—and it was emphasized that they are subject to radical change befor final decisions are made—are as follows:

The educational program on each campus is to be complete an dself-contained, with lower-division transfer, technical-vocational, adult and community education offerings in both day and evening.

But this arrangement need not preclude the allocation of certain functions exclusively to one campus. For example, the TV and FM stations, the "College of the Air," probably will be centralized at College Heights, and some technical-vocational curriculums may be limited to one or two campuses.

A high degree of autonomy will be provided at each campus. Each will have its own faculty, chief administrator and administrative staff, with the superintendent's staff at the district level responsible for coordination and common services.

Attendance boundaries will be established for each campus, and they will determine which campus a student attends, except in cases where his "home campus" might not offer a special program in which he wishes to enroll.

First-phase construction at each campus is expected to involve 225,000 square feet of gross building space and cost approximately $7.4 million.

The horticultural center at College Heights would not be repeated at the north and south campuses, and most of the needs of the apprenticeable trades for junior college facilities are likely to continue to be met at College Heights.

Strong occupationally oriented business divisions will be encouraged at both new campuses —especially in the fields of accounting, merchandise management, a new "mid-management" curriculum and secretarial-clerical—and serious consideration is being given to other programs in the medical and health fields.

In their first phases, both new campuses are earmarked for a gymnasium, swimming pool, athletic fields and little theater. At both, the library and student center may well be combined, with separate libraries to be constructed in late rphases.

Initially, except for introductory courses, the data processing program probably will be centralized at College Heights because of the expense of the equipment involved and the relatively small number of students who would be enrolled in the program during the 2,000-capacity phase.

Ultimately at each campus, parking will be provided for approximately 4,200 cars. For the first phase, some 1,200 parking spaces are planned.

In other businses on its agenda, the board:

Learned that the district's total assessed valuation for 1964-65 is $951.2 million, some $2.4 million under the figure estimated at the time the college budget was adopted on August 5. This will mean a loss of $6,700 in anticipated local tax revenue, but as Dr. Julio Bortolazzo, president, pointed out, it also represents a healthy 7 per cent increase over the total valuation for 1963-64.

Mendez Said Sane; Must Stand Trial

Two psychiatrists have indicated that William Mendez, 48-year-old South San Francisco merchant seaman accused of pumping seven bullets into his three-year-old son, Paul, while the two were on a walk July 6, is sane and able to stand trial.

This was reported last Wednesday in Superior Court by Judge J. A. Branson, who scheduled a jury trial for Tuesday, September 15, at 10 a.m.

Mendez is charged with attempted murder and assault with intent to commit murder.

He pleaded not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity to the charges August 13, and the psychiatrists, Dr. Harvey Small, San Mateo, and Robert Quirbach, Agnews State Hospital, were appointed to examine the defendant and report their findings.

Mendez admitted to police that he shot the boy because he did not want the youngster to be returned to his estranged wife. The youngster is recovering from his wounds.

Transit Plan Hearing Set

A public hearing on the recommendation that the County Board of Supervisors activate mass transit authority as authorized in the West Bay Rapid Transit bill approved this year by the State Legislature has been scheduled for September 10 at 10 a.m. in the Supervisors' Chambers at the Hall of Justice in Redwood City.

The county's Rapid Transit Committee voted at the last three hearings to recommend activation of the authority to seek ways and means of solving the county's mass transit problems.

Supervisors, acting on the recommendation of County Mgr. E. R. Stallings, set the hearing date.

THEFT REPORTED

Mrs. Raymond Miller of 1812 Sweetwood Drive, reported to Daly City police over the weekend that someone had stolen her billfold, containing $17 in cash and credit cards, from a launderette in the Broadmoor Shopping Center.

Sugar 'n' Spice

By Nell Norton

SUMMER, AUTUMN, winter, spring—no matter what the season, cookies are always in demand and home-made cookies served with a glass of milk or a cup of fresh-made coffee are the greatest.

These Frosted Fruit Jumbles won a prize in the big bake-off sponsored by a major company and after tasting them, you'll agree that the judges were very wise in their choice.

FROSTED FRUIT JUMPLES

4 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon mace
2 cups mixed candied fruit
½ cup raisins
½ cup chopped walnuts
1 cup butter
⅔ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup white sugar
2 unbeaten eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon lemon extract
1-3 cup sour cream

Sift flour, salt, soda and spices together. Add candied fruit, nuts and raisins; mix well. Cream the butter, gradually add the brown sugar and white sugar, creaming well. Blend in the unbeaten eggs, vanilla and lemon extract. Beat well. Add half the flour-fruit mixture and beat well.

Lastly, add the sour cream and blend in the remaining flour-fruit mixture. Chill at least 2 hours. Shape dough into balls, using a rounded teaspoonful for each. Place on ungreased cookie sheet.

Flatten to ¼-inch thickness with bottom of glass dipped in sugar. Bake in 375-degree oven for 9 to 12 minutes until light golden brown. Frost warm with lemon glaze.

LEMON GLAZE

2 tbsp. butter
2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon lemon extract.
2 to 3 tbsp. milk

Combine the butter, confectioners' sugar and extract. Add enough milk to make it spread nicely.

NO COLLECTION of cookie recipes seems complete without a recipe for a chocolate cookie and these are easy enough that you can let your daughter (who's always wanting to bake) make them.

CHOCOLATE COOKIES

2 cups sifted cake flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg, unbeaten
3 squares unsweetened choclate, melted
2 tbsp. milk

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, soda, salt and cinnamon, and sift three times. Cream shortening; add sugar gradually, creaming after each addition until light and fluffy. Add egg and melted chocolate; beat well. Add flour, a small amount at a time, mixing well after each addition. Add milk. Chill thoroughly. Roll one-eighth-inch thick on lightly floured board. Cut with floured cookie cutter and sprinkle with sugar. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet in moderate voven (350 degrees) for 9 minutes. Makes 6 dozen 2½-inch cookies.

Louanne's Datebook

By Louanne Heath

WHILE THE lazy hot days of summer have found many persons racing about the state searching for just the right spot to soak up a bit of sunshine and relax away from the cares and chores of everyday living, the newly-installed officers of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Mothers' Club have been hard at work devising plans for the coming year.

Mrs. Richard Holmberg, club president and her officers, Mrs. George Valente, vice president; Mrs. Michael O'Malley, recording secretary; Mrs. Roy Dinjus, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Angelo Trentacosta, financial secretary and Mrs. Walter Tafralis, auditor, hosted the first monthly whist yesterday with great success.

The executive board, working with the board of directors and the annual chairman, seated guests in the school auditorium and, as a thank you gesture, served home-made cake and coffee to all the faithful whist players.

Next event on the club's busy agenda is the traditional Welcome Breakfast to be held on the first day of school, Tuesday, in the school cafeteria. All mothers of newly enrolled students of OLPH are invited to this special "let's-get-acquainted" gathering. Breakfast will be served at 10 a.m., according to Mrs. O. Walter Mignault, publicity chairman.

While we are talking about Mrs. Mignault, Mrs. Dorothy Bergin reports that Mrs. Mignault's behavoir continues to be mysterious and now she appears to be hoarding noodles, macaroni and beans! Let's hope she isn't planning to cook them in that huge supply of silver paint!

Whatever she is "cooking up," the best bet continues to be that all of the paraphanelia is being put to some use as she concocts decorations for the OLPH fashion show, L' Anniversaire d' Argent.

The fashion show is scheduled to be one of the main topics of discussion when the club meets for the first time this season on Thursday, September 10, at 8 p.m. The general chairman of the show is Mrs. Milan Stanley and she has announced that she will make public details concerning reservations at the meeting.

Mrs. Stanley is being assisted by these fashion show committee members: Mrs. Ben Parodi, prize chairman; Mrs. Tony Pacheco and Mrs. Phillip Dittmore, reservations chairman; Mrs. Mignault, decorations chairman; Mrs. George Calegari and Mrs. Gerold Perkov, door prize chairmen; Mrs. John Candau, hostess chairman; Mrs. Bergin, publicity chairman, and Mrs. Martin Krenn, program chairman.

Mrs. Mignault reports enthusiatically that 1964-65 should be outstanding in the growth and activity of the club.

"It has been 25 years since a handful of dedicated mothers, inspired by the tireless efforts of the Sisters of St. Joseph and guided by their pastor, Father James Bergin, founded the Mothers Club of Our Lady of Perpetual Help.

"For a quarter of a century they have pledged all their charitable works toward the school and the children of the parish. God willing, we hope to continue the pledge for another 25 years," Mrs. Mignault stated.

NURSING sunburns and the sore muscles that are always the aftermath of a picnic are Mr. and Mrs. William Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Remo Cuniberti, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Pinomaki, all of Westlake.

The families were part of a large assemblage from the Amity-Seal Rock Masonic Lodge, picnicking at the Blackberry Farm near Cupertino.

MASTER Nicholas Joseph Zamora became one month old on Monday of this week and already the chubby brown-eyed little pixie has begun enjoying the athletic outdoor type activities in which the Zamoras and their two older children Marty and Valerie, relish so much.

"I think he is going to be a good little camper," reports Adele Zamora after taking him on an outing to the YMCA camp at Jones Gulch.

Dedicated Adele is busy losing weight so that she can model those petite sizes in a fashion show next month and is eager to hear any formula guaranteed to melt the pounds off swiftly.

SUSAN BATTLE, the 20-year-old granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wagner, has been visiting her grandparents while her parents and younger sister and brother tour Canada, Washington, Oregon and northern California.

The bride-to-be is a 1964 graduate of Westmoor High School and will enter the College of San Mateo this fall.

Registration Begins for Jefferson Adult School

THIS ART CLASS is only one of a raft of cultural arts courses taught in the Jefferson High School District evening adult program. Altogether the program will offer 155 classes in all fields and virtually all of them may be taken for high school credit. The evening program will get under way September 14 at all of the district's high schools and at several other locations. A brochure outlining the programs may be obtained from the district's office.

Program Lists 155 Classes; Wide Variety at 4 Schools

FOUR decades of continuing growth ushers in the 1964-65 Jefferson Union High School District Adult School program.

Commencing at all the district's high schools (Jefferson, Oceana, Terra Nova, Westmoor) and at several special locations on September 14, the program now lists 155 classes, 93 instructors, has a projected enrollment of over 8,000 and shows no signs of slowing down.

Last year the JUHSD adult school division issued more diploms, offered more classes, and had a higher total adult enrollment than any other adult education program in San Mateo County.

In the brief five years since Principal Louis J. Martin has been in the program, he has seen it almost triple in enrollment, scope and importance.

"And," says Martin, "this is not the end of expansion. More and more, adults are coming to understanding the importance of education and are being struck by the realization that it's never too late to complete an education.

ONE out of seven high school diplomas awarded in California urban districts are now being awarded through adult schools, he points out.

"Persons with high school diplomas average almost twice the life-time earnings as those people with less than eight years of schooling," Martin said. "Even people with from one to three years of high school earn nearly 15 per cent less than high school graduates in life-time earnings."

Adults don't earn only diplomas through adult education, but in the process can train for citizenship, keep well informed on national and world affairs, participate in cultural arts, and learn new skills in a complete program which ranges through industrial arts, literature, history, science, mathematics, foreign languages, and a myriad of special interest subjects, Martin said.

VIRTUALLY all classes offered may be taken for high school credit. Five units are received for each class successfully completed. A total of 150 units are required for an adult over 21, although any person 18 years of age or over is eligible to enroll in adult education classes.

One of the best features of adult school is the ease and attractiveness of enrollment, the adult school principal said.

There are no residence requirements, a general fee of only one dollar is required (there are special fees for some classes, and adults are required to pay for materials, books and supplies), and the dollar (not required of Citizenship and Foreign Speaking students) entitles the student to enroll in as many classes as he wishes.

ALL registration is done during the first two weeks of the semester, during which time all enrollment will be made at the time and place of the first class meeting as indicated on the schedule.

"A few lines on a registration card, and the student is enrolled," Martin said.

Also provided is counseling service for advice and guidance in the making up of the student's program.

SEVERAL ARE UNUSUAL

Full Program of Special Interest Courses Planned

The Jefferson Union High School District Adult Division will offer a full range of special interest classes, according to Principal Louis Martin.

Three of the most unusual classes on the program are modern math concepts, family cooking specialties, and food preparation for cafeteria workers.

Modern math concepts (Westmoor, Terra Nova) is a class which has grown out of interest expressed primarily by parents of elementary and secondary school students who can no longer assist their children in math homework because of the newly implemented "modern math" (SMSG, SRA), Martin said.

Last year over 250 students enrolled in six sections of this class, and the enrollment this year is expected to be even larger.

Family cooking specialties (Jefferson) and food preparation for cafeteria workers (Westmoor) are two of the specially tailored shorter courses arranged by Martin, in this case running from September 16 to December 2, and September 29 to November 10, respectively.

These two classes are unusual not only in content, but also in the fact that they are both taught by men, Roy Hammerich and Edward Nyland, of unusual culinary talents, Martin said.

Hammerich is head of the cooking school at San Francisco City College, one of the country's most renowned schools in that specialized area.

Nyland, also of City College, is in charge of the baking school.

The driver training program offered at various levels at Westmoor, Jefferson and Oceana, has two cars added to its previous fleet of four, and will therefore be able to provide a wider range of service than ever before, he said.

The ever-popular pre-Christmas salesmanship course (Westmoor, September 14—October 26) is once again being offered, the principal aid. This course has, in past semesters, drawn accolades from students who acquired fine holiday jobs because of techniques learned in the class. Last year all adults enrolled in the class obtained jobs," Martin said.

Home planning and remodeling and interior decorating and design is another pair of popular courses, both, this semester held at Westmoor.

Interior decorating and design deals with the furnishing and redecorating of the home; selection of all and floor coverings, and the selection, use and placement of furniture and accessories.

Home planning and remodeling delves into the fundamentals of material estimating, general building information, labor costs, general contracting law local and state codes, and other valuable allied information, Martin explained.

Writing Workshops Set at Terra Nova and Westmoor

Writing for fun and, possibly, profit will be given double-barreled attention in Adult School this semester, with Writing Workshops being held at both Terra Nova and Westmoor.

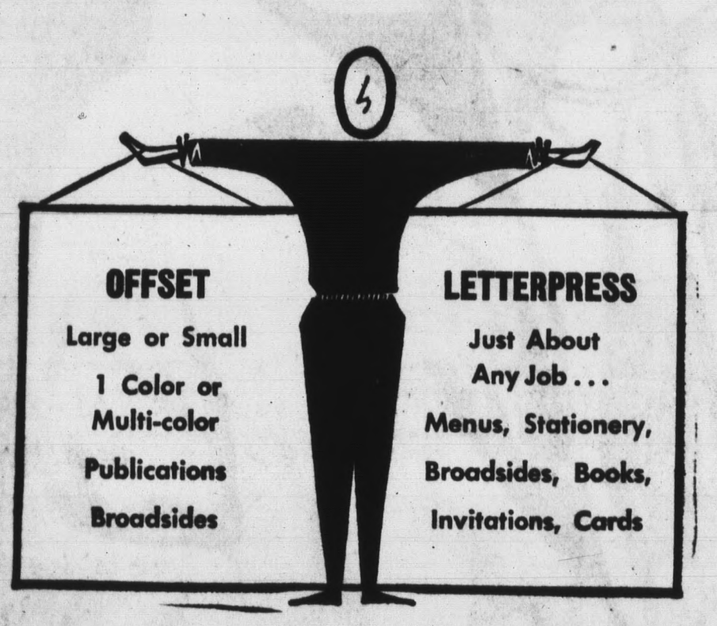

Le Pacini, journalism teacher at Terra Nova and Post-Times sports columnist who has had articles published in national magazines, will, as in the past two years, be holding class at Westmoor.

Mrs. Helen Schellenberg, noted author of books for teenagers and extensively published in fiction magazines, returns after a year's absence to handle prospective writers at Terra Nova.

Generally, the workshops will be geared to those students who have always had a desire to write, but who have never had the chance to be objectively read or criticized.

Discussions and criticisms from instructors and other students of both the student's own work and other literature should assist him in at least enjoying a rewarding hobby.

Pacini's class will be held Tuesdays and Mrs. Schellenberg's Wednesdays to afford more serious writing students the opportunity of attending classes twice weekly and receiving two different opinions.

A Busy Day For Firemen

A rash of grass fires kept Daly City firefighters busy Saturday. Four were reported during the day.

The most stubborn broke out in the Southern Hills area near Whittier Street. Firemen, manning four engines, were at the scene nearly two hours.

The other grass fires broke out at Third and Castle Streets, at Market and Florence Streets and in a planting strip near Westmoor High School.

Policies Are Revised for CSM Talks

A revision of the College of San Mateo "Policies and Procedures" manual adopted by the board of trustees will insure that henceforth any extreme or highly controversial speaker or subject will be exposed to etihter debate or expert critical challenge to "assure that balance is maintained in the presentations" at the same time and on the same platform.

College spokesmen said this is not a departure from the unwritten policy that guided the board and President Julio Bortolazzo durnig the recent con- of avowed Communist Mickey Lima on the lecute platofrm.

From now on, however, both representatives of sharply contrasting views will appear on the same platform, or someone with expert critical ability (not necessarily representing an opposing extreme view) will be on hand to either show flaws in the argument or present in effect the other side of the coin, the trustees decided.

Miss Soltau, a Jefferson High School senior, will spend today and tomorrow at the fair. Overnight accommodations have been arranged at the Sacramento Inn.

Westlake Nook and Upholstery Experts on Re-Upholstering

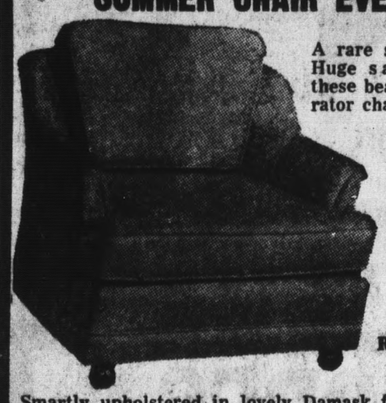

BOB RUSSELL (left) and Joe Murphy perform a re-upholstering operation, transforming what appear to be completely worn dump bound chairs into beautiful, new and modern furniture. Westlake Nook & Upholstery have occupied their convenient 6157 Mission Street location for more than 4 years and feature free pickup and delivery service as well as BankAmericard charge convenience.

Custom-made draperies are also featured at The Nook, according to owner William "Bill" Hodge, and are being offered at a special 20% discount for the month of September. A call to JU 4-8710 will accommodate with a free estimate on any upholstering or drapery problem you may have. No job is too large or too small for Westlake Nook & Upholstery.
